

FATHER RUSSELL TO BE PRESENTED BY THE CARDINAL

New Pastor Formally
Greets St. Patrick's
Parish Today.

Solemn High Mass to Be Celebrated at 11 o'clock.

Cardinal Gibbons will come from Baltimore this morning to officiate at the presentation of the Rev. William T. Russell to the congregation of St. Patrick's Church. Father Russell was recently appointed pastor of the church, to succeed the late Rev. D. J. Stafford. He assumed the duties of pastor several weeks ago, but has not been formally presented to the congregation.

Solemn high mass will be celebrated at 11 o'clock by Father Russell, assisted by the Rev. Cornelius J. Dacey, of St. Elizabeth's Church, Baltimore, and the Rev. James O'Connor, of the Catholic University of America.

Cardinal Gibbons will assist at the mass, and preach the sermon. The Rev. George Dougherty, of the Catholic University, will attend the Cardinal, and the masters of ceremonies will be the Rev. William J. Carroll, of St. Patrick's Church, and Albert Ridgeway.

Procession to Church.
A procession of clergy and altar boys will form before the 11 o'clock service. The Cardinal, attended by the officiating priests, will leave the rectory a few minutes before the hour set for the service, and will march down Tenth street, into the church. The men of the parish and members of the local Catholic societies will form a guard of honor. At the conclusion of the service, the priests will leave the church in the same order.

Following the mass, a reception will be held in the rectory, to which the congregation and the public are invited. Cardinal Gibbons will present the people to Father Russell. The Cardinal and visiting priests will be entertained at dinner by Father Russell and the priests of St. Patrick's.

Previous to his appointment to St. Patrick's, Father Russell was secretary to the Cardinal, a position he had held a number of years. He is not known to the Catholics of this city, having formerly been pastor of the Catholic Church at Hyattsville, his first charge after being ordained to the priesthood.

The Musical Program.
The following musical program has been arranged for today's service:

Processional, "Coronation March."
Mass, Gounod's "Solemnelle" (as arranged by the Music Commission of the Archdiocese of Baltimore).
At the Gradual, "Prayer for the Pope."
At the Offertory, "Inflammatus."
At the Post-Communion, "Prayer for the Republic."
At the Benediction, "Gounod's Mass."
Soloists: Mrs. Annie (Guit) Fugate, Alto soloist; Mrs. Esther Gumprecht, Tenor soloist; Melville D. Hensley, Bass soloist; Thomas A. Murray, Organist; Anton Ghetzner, First violins; Chris Art. Sol. Minster, Herman Rakemann.
Director: Armand Gumprecht.
An orchestra of twenty men will assist on this occasion.

FUGITIVE CAUGHT; IS WANTED HERE

There is jubilation in D street. Glad tidings have been spread broadcast, for Bernard Shapiro is once more happy. David Glasburg, twenty-four years old, last night was arrested in Harrisburg, Pa., on a charge of embezzling $200 worth of Bernard's wares. Glasburg vanished on July 26 last, and since then Bernard has been nursing an eighteen-month grudge. He reported the theft to the police at the time it occurred, and has been patiently waiting for intelligence from his touch and go cashier.

Last night, when informed by Detective Louis Trumbo that the alleged store pilferer had been arrested, Bernard was exultant and exuberant. He wanted to get on a train and go forthwith to Harrisburg and "make for dot Hebrew a black eye," but when informed that the round trip would set him $6 behind the board he thought better of it, and decided to remain in Washington.

Glasburg had been employed but a short time in the D street store when he decamped, taking with him, it is claimed, thirty-eight watches, half a dozen carefully selected fobs, a similar assortment of the choicest charms, a tan suit case, two suits to match, many scarfpins, and some gold rings, which would be compelled to prove their character.

"Last July he left my store," said Bernard, "and, by golly, that's about all he did leave."

Detective Cornell went to Harrisburg last night to bring the prisoner back to Washington.

CONGRESS FAVORS REPORT ON INCREASED SALARIES

Keep Commission Urges Regrading and Reclassification of Employees in the Executive and Independent Departments in Washington.

Sentiment in Congress seems favorable to the adoption of the report of the assistant committee of the Keep Commission providing for a regrading and reclassification of the employees in the Executive Departments and independent establishments in Washington.

Printed copies of the report have just been placed on the desks of the members and the Senate and Representative are giving consideration to the proposed plan, which is said to provide a uniform classification of the employees in all the departments.

It is said that the adoption of the plan would mean the distribution among the employees of about $2,000,000 more each year, a goodly sum that would find its way largely into the tills of Washington merchants and the regular channels of trade. Government workers are almost a unit for the new scheme of organization.

Both Estimates Shown.
The report of the committee shows in parallel columns the official estimates submitted to Congress in the regular way by the various secretaries, and the treatment of the force as proposed by the committee, which was selected by the President to consider the subject of grades and salaries and submit a report.

The committee has formulated a standard schedule that is to be made applicable to all departments and establishments. It provides that chief clerks and chiefs of divisions, employees who perform supervisory, executive, and administrative duties, shall receive salaries ranging from $2,100 to $4,300.

Senior clerks, employees who are assigned to work largely supervisory, or requiring the highest order of clerical ability, involving much original thought, consideration, and investigation, are provided for in three grades, $2,100, $2,800, and $3,600.

Clerks, employees who are assigned to work more or less routine, involving responsibility, special ability, and original thought, consideration, and investigation, are to be rated at $1,700, $2,100, and $2,500.

Routine Work.

Junior clerks, employees who are assigned to work of routine character, requiring but little original thought or consideration, but requiring judgment, responsibility, and special skill, are rated at $1,300, $1,500, $1,700, and $1,900.

Under clerks, employees who are assigned to work of a simple or routine character requiring care, accuracy, and skill, are placed in four grades, $1,000, $1,200, $1,400, and $1,600.

In the subclerical grades employees whose duties are not clerical or mechanical, but require some special skill, or involve personal responsibility, as messengers, watchmen, skilled laborers, sorters, and counters, are rated at $800, $900, $1,000, and $1,100.

Employees engaged in light work, as messenger boys, $650, $750, $850, and $950. Employees engaged in heavy work, as janitors, $300, $350, and $400 per annum.

Professional and Scientific.

It is proposed that professional, scientific, and technical, and miscellaneous employees shall receive salaries, assimilated as far as practicable to the scale established for clerical and higher grades.

The duties and variety of designations shall be as small as practicable, and the duties assigned to such employees shall be confined as far as possible within lines indicated by their titles and for which they may have passed examinations.

The committee has taken the total number of persons estimated for and, analyzing these numbers grade by grade and class by class, has rearranged them under the grades and salaries of the new schedule.

The committee recommends that the salary of the secretary to the President be raised from $5,000 to $7,500, a rate that is also recommended in the official estimates. The committee also recommends that two assistant secretaries at the White House be paid $3,600, instead of $3,000 each. The executive clerk is raised from $2,500 to $2,700, the disbursing clerk is raised to $2,400, instead of $2,200; seven senior clerks are placed at $2,100, two at $1,900, and two at $1,700; two clerks at $1,400, two at $1,200, steward at $1,000, chief doorkeeper at $1,500, five doorkeepers at $1,400, three at $1,200, four messengers at $1,000, five at $900, watchman at $800, fireman at $600, and two laborers at $720 each. This is an average increase of 80 per cent.

THE OSAGE SCHOOL.
Osage boys who attend the Osage Boarding School, at Pawhuska, I. T., the coming year will be quartered in tents, which will be double covered, floored, and finished in the most approved white man's style. This will be necessary because of the expected overcrowded condition of the school, judging from the large advance enrollment.

OSWALD B. PARSONS FUNERAL TODAY

Well-Known Contractor
Superintended Work on Municipal Building.

OSWALD B. PARSONS,
Who Will Be Buried This Afternoon.

Funeral services over the remains of Oswald B. Parsons, who died at his home, 14 Quincy street northeast, yesterday after a long illness, will be held from his residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. M. T. Thompson, pastor of Eckington Presbyterian Church, will officiate, and interment will be in the Congressional Cemetery.

Oswald B. Parsons, with his brother, James L. Parsons, was one of the best known building contractors and construction engineers in this city. He has superintended the building of many of the city's largest buildings.

Born on his father's farm, in Louisiana, Va., February 22, 1857, Mr. Parsons came to Washington in 1874. He superintended the construction of Stoneleigh Court, the Marlboro apartment house, and many others. At the time of his death he was superintending the construction of the new Municipal building.

In 1887 Mr. Parsons married Miss Myrtle May Grove, daughter of a prominent newspaper man of this city. His wife and five children survive. They are Misses Miriam, Helen, Katherine Dorothy, and Elizabeth Parsons.

CITY OF 20,000,000,

OLD GOTHAM IN 1950

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Joseph Caccavale, consulting engineer, prepared a table of increased population predicted for Greater New York in the next forty years, which he sent to the Public Service Commission today to guide them in planning future transit improvements. The table shows that in 1950 the city will have a population of about 20,000,000, comprised as follows:

Manhattan, 2,000,000; Brooklyn, 7,000,000; Bronx, 4,000,000; Queens, 4,000,000; and Richmond, 3,000,000.

Manhattan's population will reach its highest point 1925 to 1930, when it will have 2,500,000. It will lose population after that, business crowding residences out. Brooklyn, Bronx, and Queens will have large, steady increases, the largest percentage in growth being in Queens. Richmond will also have steady increase.

A MEAN EMPLOYER.

"Mr. Sparkies, I am going to raise your salary."
"Oh, Mr. Sellerdot, I don't know how I can express my gratitude! I assure you I am too full for utterance. I can only—"

"Just as soon as you convince me by others."

"I'll do it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

KNIGHTS OF MOMUS TO HAND OUT KNOCKS AT GAY BANQUET BOARD

Toward the election of that high and mighty official, the official fly catcher, and likewise that powerful and indispensable person, the chief sanitary officer, will the Knights of Momus bend their energies tonight, if there is any left when they go through the courses at their eleventh annual banquet.

Will E. Burchfield, who presides over that collection of avowed "knockers," will lead the Anvil Chorus, after which the members, regardless of friend or foe, will, as is their wont, lay about them, and with their hammers, endeavor to slay each other with verbal blows.

No one is exempt at the annual banquet of the Knights of Momus. Many a skeleton is laid bare, and many a closely guarded secret dragged out into the glare of the banquet hall lights, and jingled before the unhappy possessor's gaze.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is billed to hand out some choice knocks. The victims selected by him have not been announced, but it is whispered that the Supreme Court justices are not on the list. Other knockers of more or less prominence will then take charge of the forge and merrily pound the anvil with their verbal hammers. These others, however, are dark horses, but it is said that there are some mighty smithies among them.

To avoid all possibility of members getting their dander up when the hammer alights on their heads, each will be searched as he enters the banquet hall for slugs and big type.

ROBBERS' MISTAKE

DITCHES FREIGHT

Where Notorious Gang

Made Big "Haul."

SEDALIA, Mo., Feb. 22.—Train robbers were frustrated in an attempt to rob Missouri Pacific passenger train, No. 4, en route from Kansas City to St. Louis, early today, in a cut near Ottumwa, by an extra freight train running ten minutes ahead of the passenger.

The freight was ditched by the removal of a rail, and Engineer Robert Johnson, Fireman Dugan, and Head Brakeman Hugh Harvey were injured.

The robbers attempted to wreck the passenger at the exact spot the James boys and Younger boys robbed a train July 9, 1876. The robbery thirty-two years ago netted a big amount of money.

The freight was on a schedule unknown to the robbers. The passenger train is known to carry a large amount of express, and railroads officials here today say that it was intended by the wreckers to loot the train after it had been ditched.

The passenger train arrived at the scene after the accident, and returned to Sedalia with the injured. They are now in the "Katy" hospital here. Passengers aided in caring for the injured on the trip to Sedalia. The Missouri Pacific's secret service men are working on the case. No one was found near the wreck.

INCORRIGIBLE.

"Yes; I could have once bought the site of the Palmer House in Chicago for a brass plikin an seven Mexican dollars."

"And you wouldn't invest?"

"No; I couldn't look that far ahead."

"My friend, you lost a great chance, but there are others. What say to some ship's stock at a low figure?"

"And still the man wouldn't invest."—Exchange.

SOMETHING ON THE WAY.

The McJones family were moving to another town. Mr. McJones had gone ahead to get the new home in order and Mrs. McJones was to follow with the family's goods and chattels. When she was ready to start, Mrs. McJones, remembering her scriptures, wired her husband as follows:

"Lares and Penates on board boat."

"Will arrive tomorrow morning."

"But when the telegram got to her husband, it was in these terms:

"Lard and peanuts on board boat."

"Will arrive tomorrow morning."—Success Magazine.

WILLING TO BUY.

"I haven't tasted liquor for thirty-nine years."

"Um."

"I say I haven't tasted liquor for nine-and-thirty years."

"Well, sir, is that a boast or a hint?"—Exchange.

Embassy Scene Of Gay Wedding For Lady's Maid

Baroness Hengelmüller
Hostess for Miss Enright and Friends.

Hanna Enright O'Brien was perhaps the happiest girl in Washington today, and for good reason. Until 10 o'clock yesterday morning O'Brien did not belong to the rest of her name, but at that hour the Rev. Thomas E. McGuigan, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, spoke the words which made her the wife of James O'Brien, one of the "finest" of New York town.

Miss Enright, or Mrs. O'Brien, as the law now dictates, was happy because she was a bride. She was happy because the big New York policeman could no longer live without her. But, she was happier still because the whole Austrian embassy was taking part in her wedding festivities, and the gracious wife of Baron Hengelmüller was the chief spirit in the whole program.

Ball for Bridal Party.

In anticipation of the ceremony, Baroness Hengelmüller gave a ball at the embassy Friday night, and sixty guests danced in the spacious ballroom, while an orchestra played. Yesterday Baroness Hengelmüller gave a luncheon for the bridal pair and their friends, and later Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien were whisked off to the railroad station to start on their honeymoon journey.

It was a great day for the pretty bride and her stalwart husband, and the happy little girl thanked the fates that took her to the employment of the Baroness Hengelmüller. For several years Miss Enright had been the personal attendant of the Austrian ambassador's wife, and when she told the baroness that she was going to be married, there was none who entered into the preparations for the wedding more eagerly than the baroness herself. She planned the trousseau and selected her own charming little daughter as the only attendant. She told the bride-to-be to invite her friends, and they were to have the finest ball that could be arranged. She kept her word, and the stately Austrian embassy never held a livelier or happier crowd than that which danced to the future of the bride and her gallant sweetheart.

Directed the Breakfast.

Because of an attack of rheumatism Baroness Hengelmüller was unable to attend the ceremony at the church, but she directed preparations for the wedding breakfast which followed. Sixteen guests were invited to the breakfast and at its conclusion the Baroness wished the young couple godspeed and away they went whirling down Connecticut avenue in the ambassador's own touring car.

The big patrolman and his pretty little wife waved a happy good-bye to the embassy domestic staff, and they were off on life's journey together.
